Michael Ramos Officer-Involved Shooting Case To Be Presented to Grand Jury

Travis County District Attorney Margaret Moore announced today that she has decided to present the Michael Ramos case to a special grand jury.

“I reviewed the case today with my Civil Rights Director, and we believe the investigation has progressed to the point that we can properly make this announcement.”

On April 24, 42-year-old Michael Ramos was shot to death during a confrontation with Austin police officers at a Southeast Austin apartment complex.

The Austin Police Department and the Texas Rangers have been investigating the Ramos case.

District Attorney Moore stated that the date of the presentment has not yet determined. The empaneling of grand juries in Travis County was suspended in March pursuant to COVID-19 orders. “We will present this case as soon as is practicable given the COVID-related constraints.”
